The trade union federation COSESONA, satisfied with the adoption of the General Staff Regulations

After the adoption of the bill on the general status of civil servants, the COSESONA trade union federation congratulates the Government for the step taken in terms of restoring social peace in the workplace.

For Mr Victor Ndabaniwe, president of COSESONA, civil servants in general and teachers in particular welcomed the act taken by the elected representatives of the people during the plenary session of december 8, 2022,. Monsieur Ndabaniwe affirms that on thursday december 8, 2022, the elected representatives of the people were able to bring happiness in the socio-professional environment. It is a feeling of satisfaction because the implementation of the salary policy had been blocked by the absence of this very important document in the restoration of social peace in the workplace.

Since 2021, the Government had planned a budget allocated to the implementation of the wage policy, but due to the lack of availability of a general statute adapted to the wage policy, this budget was not used, it was necessary that the civil servants in general and teachers in particular are waiting.

The budget of 25 billion which had been planned since 2021, the Government has renewed it for the 2021-2022 budget year, will soon be used as part of the implementation of the fair wage policy.

According to Mr. Victor Ndabaniwe, the new reform on remuneration has four components, namely, the index part, the employment part, the performance part and the family allowance.

With regard to the fundamental element, which is the employment share, it had been blocked by the fact that the general status of civil servants had to undergo adjustments with a view to eliminating all the bonuses and allowances which were at the origin of the injustices which observed in the workplace.

With regard to advancement in grade, there is one aspect that civil servants should not minimize, because sometimes when we talk about salary policy, all civil servants count on what will be added to their salaries, but without taking into account their performance at the level of the profession. However, according to Mr. Victor Ndabaniwe, remuneration is considered as compensation for the work provided. It is therefore a question, with regard to what this reform provides, that civil servants make an effort, change their mentality given that there are performance contracts that they will be forced to sign at the start of each financial year, and which will be assessed at the end of the exercise, they will have grades, and it is these grades that will allow them to advance annually in grades and steps.

The president of COSESONA points out that we have not yet agreed on what will be given to the civil servant after having been noted and evaluated his performance. The same is true for the family allowance, it will be a question of the partners coming together in order to be able to determine the amount which will be allocated to the family allowances (www.rtnb.bi)
